Last Modified on 11/14/2023 12:28 pm EST

Yes. Movius meets the imperatives of GDPR, including privacy by design, explicit consent, data breach notification, and subject access rights.

The Movius MultiLine solution clearly separates personal and business calls and texts in a transparent and auditable way. The platform can demonstrate the necessary degrees of separation required to meet the privacy by design imperative of GDPR. By separating the personal and business communications on a single device, MultiLine can enable compliance standards at a low cost of regulatory oversight and organization can feel confident that they are not in breach of GDPR regulations.
